What you should know about Developmental Services Ontario

Welcome to Developmental Services Ontario, your first point of entry into Adult Developmental Services in Ontario.

In 2006, the Ontario Government announced that it would change the way people who have a developmental disability applied for services. With the family's input they developed a system that would create an easier and more transparent way of applying and accessing services and supports from government funded agencies.

In 2007, the Ministry of Community and Social Services tested a new application process in the form of a pilot project and tested it on many people across the province of Ontario. These assessments included an application for Development Services & Supports (V5) (ADSS (V5) and a Supports Intensity Scale-A 2nd edition (SIS-A 2nd edition). These questionnaires are processed by trained and competent assessors and this helps them to understand exactly what your supports needs are in every aspect of your life.

Since July 1 2011, the new application process is being used provincially in all Developmental Services Ontario agencies. All adults who are receiving or seeking developmental supports and services will have to complete this new application package. Unlike traditional assessments, the ADSS (V5) and SIS-A 2nd edition do not look at a person's deficits, but at what supports the individual needs to live a successful life.

HandsTheFamilyHelpNetwork.ca has been established as the lead agency for The Developmental Services Ontario for the North East region. Hands is a non-profit, bilingual, charitable organization and funded primarily by the Ministry of Children, Community and Social Services.

Developmental Services Ontario can help people with a developmental disability apply for Ministry funded adult developmental services.

Developmental Services Ontario is also referred to as the DSO.

Developmental Services Ontario was introduced in July 2011 by the Ontario government under a new law called The Services and Supports to Promote the Social Inclusion of Persons with Developmental Disabilities Act (2008).

This change was made to ensure:

- A single regional access point to avoid confusion about where to go for services;
- Clear and consistent way for determining who is eligible for services;
- Needs are determined for each individual by using the same assessment tool across Ontario for everyone;
- Information can be easily transferred from one DSO office to another DSO office.

What will the DSO do?

- Confirm if you are eligible for adult Ministry funded Developmental Services.
- Complete an application package to determine your level of support needs.
- Provide you information about services and supports in your community that helps adults with developmental services.
- Tell you about other community programs that might be useful or interesting to you.
- Match and link you to Ministry funded developmental services.
- Link you to other community services.

Eligibility

DSO must make sure that you are eligible before you can apply for adult developmental services. If you were 18 or over and were receiving Ministry funded developmental services/or were on a waitlist for a service prior to July 2011, you will be grand-parented. That means that you are automatically eligible for adult developmental services.

If you were over 18 and not in service before July 2011, DSO must determine if you are eligible before you can apply for adult developmental services. In order to qualify for services, we require a copy of each of the following documents:

Proof of age

- Birth or baptismal certificate
- Ontario Health Card
- Passport; or
- Driver's license

Proof that you are an Ontario resident

- Rental or lease agreement
- Statement of direct deposit for Ontario Disability Support Program
- Employer record (pay stub or letter from employer on company letterhead)
- Mailed bank account statements (does not include automated teller receipts or bank books); or
- Utility

Psychological assessment that tells us about your disability

- If you already have an assessment that was completed by a Doctor, school, hospital or another organization, the DSO office will review it to make sure you are eligible by reviewing your significant limitations in cognitive and adaptive functions. If you do not have a psychological assessment, then we can help you find out how and where to get one.

If you are 16 or 17 years old it is very important that you call us so that we can confirm if you are eligible for adult developmental services. You will need the same information as mentioned above. If you are eligible, as soon as you turn 18, we will be able to link or match you to available Ministry funded adult developmental services.

Once you have been confirmed eligible the next step is the application.

Completing the Application Package

An Assessor/Service Navigator will meet with the applicant along with family or other respondents to complete the application package. The Assessor/ Service Navigator shall arrange for:

- Time and location for two interviews;
- Confirmation that respondents will be available for both interviews; respondents should be someone that has known the individual for at least 6 months and that can answer personal questions regarding health, disability, support needs and about funding/finances. Preferably, assessments are done with one respondent that is a support worker and the other one a family member.
- Confirmation that an authorized person will be able to provide consent prior to the meeting or at the time of the meeting. It is important to note that DSO North East Region typically seeks the consent of an individual, 16 years of age or older, for any referrals made to developmental or other services. Consent is also obtained for the sharing of results from the application package with other services and supports, if necessary.
- The respondents and/or the individual should be able to tell the assessor what supports and services the applicant is accessing now.

- The respondents and the individual needs to let the assessor know what services and supports the applicant will want to access in the present or future.
- If a Person Directed Plan is available a copy would be helpful as it will enhance the assessment.
- There is a section called “Getting to Know You”. The assessor will have a conversation with the individual and his respondents about subjects that the applicant likes and doesn't like and about what is important to them. We will also be asking if there are any goals or dreams for the future. This information is useful to do the matching and linking for the individual.
- If it has not already been provided, we will need a copy of the Birth Certificate and/or the Health Card.

Meeting 1: The Application for Developmental Services and Supports (ADSS (V5))

Ontario's Application for Developmental Services and Supports (ADSS(V5)) includes several components. These include:

- Basic demographic and contact information;
- A person's lifestyle preferences, strengths, and goals for the future;
- Background information on medical and behavioral support needs that are important to know for planning purposes;
- Information about current services and supports that may be involved;
- Current caregiver/ family circumstances; and
- Services and supports that a person is requesting.

The first interview will require approximately two hours to four hours to complete.

Meeting 2: Support Intensity Scale-A 2nd edition (SIS-A 2nd edition) ®

The Supports Intensity Scale-A 2nd edition (SIS-A 2nd edition) ® is a tool that helps to identify the pattern and intensity of supports a person needs to participate in everyday life activities. During this meeting we talk about the kind of support a person may need at home, in the community, at work or educational activities, in their relationships, or to simply stay healthy and safe. We also talk about any exceptional medical and behavioral supports needs that a person might have.

When completing the SIS-A 2nd edition ®, an Assessor/ Service Navigator meets with at least two people who know the individual well. They review each item, and ask what kind of support the person would need to be successful with that activity. For people using assistive technology, we rate the item with that technology in place.

The process is the same province-wide and is repeated every five years or sooner if the applicant has a significant change in their circumstances.

It is not a diagnostic tool; it does not diagnose intellectual disabilities but rather focuses on what can be done to improve the life of an individual already diagnosed with a developmental disability.

The second interview will require two to three hours to complete.

Preparing for your Application for Developmental Services and Supports

During the interviews:

- Don't underestimate your support needs.
- Keep an open mind about things you don't do now but may wish to in the future.
- Don't rush the process; the goal is to determine the best supports for you.
- If you disagree with anything that is said, let your interviewer know.
- If you don't understand a question please ask for clarification.
- If you need a break tell someone.
- When we meet with people, we use a laptop to make notes of your responses and comments. While this might seem impersonal, it saves time, and allows us to respond to interview requests more quickly.

The interview can be held at a location of the person's choice, so long as it ensures the individual's privacy and allows for comfortable seating at a table, along with any necessary accommodations. It is always best if the individual with a developmental disability attends the meetings.

However, we do understand that occasionally this is not possible. If you have any questions or concerns about this, please let your Assessor/ Service Navigator know when they call to schedule your meetings.

Assessor Summary Report (ASR)

From the information provided during the interviews, an "Assessor Summary Report" will be prepared for use in planning. This profile summarizes the key findings from the entire application package.

The Assessor Summary Report includes information on the following:

- Background information on the individual and their application interviews;
- Things that are important to the individual;
- Things that are important for the individual;
- Faith and cultural preferences;
- Communication skills;
- Medical and behavioral issues;
- Key areas of strength;
- Key areas of need;
- Summary of current living situation;
- Summary of goals for the future;

You will receive a copy of the report for your review and use. We ask that people review the report as soon as possible. Let us know of any corrections or additions you would like to make. When vacancies in services and supports come available within your community, this documentation is provided to other service providers.

The process is the same province-wide and is repeated every five years or sooner if the applicant has a significant change in their circumstances.

It is not a diagnostic tool; it does not diagnose intellectual disabilities but rather focuses on what can be done to improve the life of an individual already diagnosed with a developmental disability.
